Welcome CMS Chieftain Band Members:

Thank you for your continued commitment to instrumental music at Cashmere Middle School. I look forward to getting to know you as we work together this year. Music is a very important subject in the Cashmere school district. Skills that students learn and use in music classes carry into all other areas of life. Playing in the band is a great way to extend your learning and contribute to your school and community while having a great time.

Have a great year!
Mr. Chalmers
Cashmere MS/HS Band Director

ASSESSMENT/REPORTING

Students will be assessed on their skills within the following four standards:

1. Individual Musicianship:

The following skills fall under this standard. Various assessments and assignments will be used throughout the year to determine your skills in this area.

- Sight reading – How well can you read and perform music you have seen for the first time?
- Technique – How well do you know your scales and rhythms? Which instrument-specific skills are gradually showing improvement in?
- Musicality – How well do you use dynamics, articulations, and phrasing in your playing? How well do you blend and balance with your section and the entire band?
- Musical Knowledge – How well do you understand form and structure in the music we are playing? Do you know the musical terms that are indicated in your music? What do you know about the background on the music we are playing?

2. Ensemble Musicianship

The following skills fall under this standard:

- Concerts and Performances – We perform throughout the year in formal concerts, school assemblies, and in-class recitals.
- Sectionals and small ensembles – Occasionally, we work in small groups on our full band music, or on small ensemble music.
- Execution of Performance music – How well do you know the music that we are performing as a group or small ensemble?

3. Daily Work and Practice

The following skills fall under this standard:

- Assigned practice – Students will need to practice on their own to be able to effectively perform our ensemble music. We will have various assignments throughout the year to check on this practice.
- In class assignments – We have various assignments that need to be completed and returned so you can receive feedback on your learning.

4. Classroom Behaviors

The following skills fall under this standard:

- Participation, Effort, and Preparedness – Students will have a weekly self reflection calendar on which students must determine their level of effort and participation. Students will be checked daily to make sure they have their instrument, music and necessary accessories.
- Correspondence and communication – Students will have permission forms, concert reminders, and other forms of communication that must return to school with a parent signature.

It is impossible to recreate a performance situation for students who do not attend. Please mark these dates in your calendar. Instruments

Proper care of instruments is essential to your success as a musician. Instrument inspections will occur periodically. Clean your instrument monthly, and use the appropriate care products. Mouthpieces can be washed out in the music room sink and this should happen every day. Each student should have the following care products:

- Flute: Cleaning swab and/or rod, cleaning cloth
- Oboe, Clarinet, Bassoon, Saxophones: Cleaning swab of some type, cork grease, and at least 2 extra reeds.
- Trumpet, F. Horn: Valve oil, some type of slide grease, cleaning snake, cleaning cloth.
- Euphonium, Tuba: You are using school instruments, so you will be graded on how well you maintain your instrument's slides and valves. You are responsible for knowing where valve oil and slide grease are kept in the room.
- Trombone: Slide cream, tuning slide grease, spray bottle cleaning cloth.
- Percussionists: Appropriate drum sticks, practice pad and metronome (I only need to see these at the beginning of the year). Percussionists need to bring a stick bag to class every day with the following sticks: Soft timpani/cymbal mallets, hard plastic bell/xylo. mallets, snare drum sticks (2B or equivalent), yarn wrapped marimba mallets. Percussionists are responsible for maintaining the trap table, and other percussion areas. Percussionists need to label their sticks, mallets, and stick bags.

- All rules and discipline procedures outlined in the middle school student handbook apply to band class.
- No gum, food, or drink (except water) in the band room.
